"I've ridden this bike from Toronto to Buenos Aires, with no GPS, no maps, no internet packing lists. No camping gear, no spares, no puncture repair. One contact lens, no insurance, no license. I've checked, mooched and slunk across 26,000 miles and 21 countries. I've cheated and I've won. Right now that's the funniest joke I've heard." —Dan Walsh in Ushuaia, Bike Magazine, January 07

MORPHO ELITE 2P AIRBEAM TENT

That's right, no poles! Originally designed for extreme mountaineering, this innovative 2-person, all-weather tent features two incredibly strong inflatable airbeams enclosed in puncture-resistant sailcloth shells that can withstand twice as much force as standard aluminum poles. Even if the airbeams get bent all the way to the ground, they simply spring back into shape. A broken pole is usually a tent's death sentence. In the rare event that you somehow accidentally damage one of the airbeams, no problem... they're inexpensive and easy to replace. Plus, no poles means less to worry about misplacing or damaging. With remarkable strength, easy setup, and beautiful simplicity, this shelter can handle it all: vicious downpours, high winds, and early season snow. It's durable, packs tight for extended trips, and takes 45 seconds or less to set up. Stays virtually condensation-free, thanks to waterproof/breathable fabric and vents. At 39 square feet when erected, the outer fly provides an additional 14 square feet of vestibule space. Nasty weather? Simply close all the doors for impervious storm protection. Dual front doors for individual entry/exit options. Rear scoop further aids ventilation, even when all doors are closed, and the scalloped tail helps keep body taut. Included foot pump collapses flat as a pancake. Stores inside a dry bag style stuff sack. Repair kit included. Sleeps two. Yellow. 8'8"×5'4"×3'6". Packed size 7"×11", 4 lbs. 3 oz.

"Most motor cyclists make use of their machines for the longer holidays, although there are those - a minority- who prefer to fix on a point, motor out and have done with the petrol until the return journey is due. Touring, however, is very good fun. New ground is explored, mountain passes only vaguely imagined are ridden, Cornish coves and Scottish rocks become realities, and there is something to satisfy the spirit of adventure which is latent in all of us. ....A word of advice is proffered here. Do not attempt too much. Eighty miles a day or a hundred every other day should be regarded as the maximum if the tour is not to degenerate into a mere succession of "blinds". If the tour is to be to a distant district and a fortnight is the limit, it may be allowed that here is an occasion on which a long distance run is justifiable. Rise, then, with the lark, be on the road by 4am, and do your two hundred the first day; then start your tour." —Excerpt, page 121, from "Handbook of Camping and Caravanning", published about 1925 by the Camping Club of Great Britain and Ireland.

PORTABLE CHAIRS ARE IMPORTANT

Not as obvious as it might seem. These small chairs are the real key to great camping experiences. Having one along gives you much more than a good spot to park your butt no matter where you are at the end of the day. They really give you a chance to invite yourself to sit around another camper's fire and share a few stories, gain wisdom and make some new friends. So bring your own chair (and maybe a flask?) and sit down and make some wonderful memories.

Some specifics: The Kermit chair is by far the most comfortable, beautiful type here. Over the past two decades it's become a genuine made-in-USA American motorcycle camper classic. If you ride a touring bike and have the space, it's still the bomb, but at five pounds it's a bit heavy and bulky for adventurous dual-sport and sport bike rides. Of the others, I like the Mantis best. It's nearly as comfortable as the Kermit but packs much smaller and only weighs a pound and a half. It also sets up and takes down slightly faster and easier. And for extreme ultra-light and super-compact packing, any of the others make great choices, too. Just bring one. —Mr. Subjective

THE KERMIT CHAIR

Chances are you've noticed the twisted, broken remains of many a plastic and aluminum discount-store folding chair abandoned or stuffed into garbage cans after rallies and events. Ah, wasteful, race-to-the-bottom consumerism...You will never see The Kermit Chair suffer such an ignominious end, however, because this is the real deal, a hand-crafted piece of artistic sitz-tech that will keep your butt off the ground with unmatched elegance, ruggedness, and utility.

Constructed of beautiful oak and aluminum structural elements, with Cordura fabric, the Kermit weighs only 5 lbs. and packs into a 4"×6"×23" Cordura bag. When you are ready for your last folding chair, the Kermit Chair awaits. Blue, green, burgundy, or black.

#740 $159.00

Leg Extensions #741 $45.00

Photo: "My Kermit's chair was the envy of my company...Overall a tough as nails chair made to last a lifetime and I would recommend it to anyone who needs a good place to plant themselves after a long day of doing what they do, be it camping, hiking, traveling, or patrolling the far reaches of Iraq or Afghanistan." —Corporal Joseph Miller, USMC 2005-2009

HIGH BACK CAMP CHAIR

Lean back, relax and enjoy your campsite. The taller design and supportive backrest combine for sublime comfort in an ultra light folding camp chair. Features a single shock corded pole structure making it easy to set up or pack down. Lightweight, strong and appreciated campsite comfort. Holds up to 319 lbs. Stores in a 18.5"×4.7"×5.5" zippered case. 22.8"×27.6"×38.6" assembled. Weighs 3lbs. Ball up your fleece sweater for a pillow, prop up your feet on a log and....zzzzz.

"I searched for years for a chair that packed small enough for hiking but was reasonably comfortable and not too expensive. This chair has balanced those sometimes-conflicting criteria better than anything else I've found. "Balance" is the key word; the chair has only two legs and your own legs provide the stability. One of the pluses of that arrangement is that the chair is a rocker; a minus is that it won't stand on its own, and getting in and out of it is a bit of a skill (but easily acquired). It sits pretty low, but definitely better than the on-the-ground folded Thermarest type of seating. One benefit of the relatively low seating is that I can use it inside my littlest tent when the mosquitoes are bad." — Review by The Voice of Reason

MILITARY CAN OPENER

Small size with big performance, these are the same light-weight, minimalist tools issued by the U.S. military for decades. Time-tested for toughness, dependability and for making quick work of the lid on a can of tuna or beans. Made from nickel plated, hardened carbon steel, the blade folds flat for storage and will stay sharp for years. Sold in pairs. Attach to keychain, lanyard or tuck one in to any pocket or bag. 2"×.8".

This opener was invented during WW2 and is considered by some military historians to be one of the Allied key technological advances, and a significant contributor to winning the war. Some scholars have argued that it was just as important as the A-bomb, the Norton Bomb sight and a bunch of other crucial (and more complex) allied technologies. The 'official' name for this can opener is 'p-38' because it took 38 turns to cut open the lid of a standard can. Keep one in your cook kit and you'll always be able to open something good. —Mr. Subjective

A MEAL ON THE ROAD

By Rand Rasmussen

Certainly, an integral part of riding pleasure is eating. And while eating at local restaurants can be enjoyable, and give us the opportunity to discover some heretofore unknown gustatory delights, it can also be expensive, inconvenient, and can encourage us to eat and snack more poorly. So a few years ago—partly in an effort to save money—whenever possible, I began preparing my own meals while on the road. But what I didn't expect were the joy and relaxation these little intervals added to my riding.

Although not all days are so perfect, what follows is an actual minute-by-minute description of a recent trip to the Falling Leaves Rally in Potosi, MO.

As I coast across the one-lane wooden slat-bridge over a small creek on a Missouri gravel road, I cannot help but to think that this is one of the reasons I ride. I shut off the motor and sit astride the now quiet machine—quiet, that is, except for the familiar and reassuring ticking and tinging of the motor cooling down in the clear autumn air—and take in my surroundings. Tall cottonwoods, with their dry, clattery leaves give me both shade and music, attended by the soothing sound of the creek water spilling over some small rocks. An hour ago I had stopped at a Flying J truck stop to get some ice for my cooler. There I had met three other rally-bound riders who were just finishing a late breakfast or early lunch in the café, and was invited to ride with them. I told them that I would, but as soon as I found my spot I would be peeling off for my lunch break. That reminded one of the guys that he had the equipment, and really should also dig it out and do more of his own cooking.

Twenty-five minutes later, at 70 MPH on 218 south, I let my instincts tug me off the highway and onto the small, paved side road leading into the hills. Soon the pavement gave way to gravel and I knew I had chosen well. When the small creek and bridge appeared, I knew: this was it. This was the spot I had been looking for to make my lunch. I place the side-stand pad on the ground and lean the bike, heavily loaded with camping equipment, heavily upon it. The silence is enhanced by the sound of birds, frogs and the gentle rustle of the wind through the giant cottonwoods.

I get out my nesting pots with my stove inside, my cooler, water and the food bag from my left hard bag, and sit down with my feet swinging over the edge of the bridge and about three feet above the water. I take my trusty old beaten-up Svea 123 white gas stove out from its storage place inside the pots, and open the gas valve slightly. I place a small piece of scrap paper on one of the main beams of the bridge, light it, and hold the stove over it. The burning paper heats the gas in the tank and causes it to run out of the jet, down the burner assembly, and to collect at its base in a shallow depression, called the “generator,” or “primer pan.” I ignite the small pool of liquid gas with my lighter, and wait while its flame atomizes the gas in the vaporizer, and also pressurizes the stove. Just before the warm-up flame dies out, I open the gas valve and it ignites the now atomized gas shooting out of the nozzle with a pulsing roar. The stove will continue to pressurize itself for as long as there is gas in the tank and the flame is maintained.

To riders who earned their riding chops on EFI-equipped bikes and butane stoves with piezo-electronic ignitions, this all may sound complicated and fiddly, but do not be fooled; there is no better way to cook. True, it takes a bit of experience to use this stove well, but it is also a design that has been working for more than half a century. Besides, after so many years and meals it has become automatic, and takes no more effort or thought than do things like turning on the gas-cock and activating the choke (enrichener) to start the bike.

I fill my smaller pot with water and place it atop the stove, and get out the veggie dogs, buns, mustard, and relish. I open a can of Hormel vegetarian chili, peel off the paper label and place it in the water with the dogs so it will heat up while they are cooking, thereby saving gas. Conserving gas is an old habit I practice without thought even when, as now, I have way more than enough to last me the trip. The next few minutes are spent just relaxing and looking around at the pleasant surroundings. I can see minnows making their way through the creek below. Above, between the trees, I can see large birds of some sort wheeling lazily on the air currents. If they are hoping I will be their next meal, they will be disappointed, for I am healthy and happy. I stir the chili now and again to encourage even heating. By now the water is roiling in a high-rolling boil. With my fork I take out the dogs and lay them on the buns. Then I take the pot off of the stove and place the chili can right on the pot supports and turn the flame down so it won't burn. While the chili is heating I add some dish soap to the hot water and clean out the pot, pausing frequently to stir the chili. After a few minutes, using my bandana for a pot holder, I take the chili off of the stove and pour half the can onto the dogs. The rest I place in a sealable plastic Glad food storage container I brought, and place it back in my cooler. Before I eat I refill the small pot with water and crank the stove up to full. This water I will use for my hot chocolate and the remainder of the dish rinsing.

Finally, I am ready to eat. The dogs, buns and all, disappear in a few short minutes. The water is boiling and so I pour a cupful onto the Swiss Miss mix in my travel mug, and shut off the stove, always astonished at the amount of noise the little stove makes at full throttle. I lay back, full and contented, lifting my head now and again to drink my chocolate, and look at the sky. The silence is complete, and it completes me as well. I marvel at how my simple dishes always seems to taste better, sitting in a rural place like this, than the finest food prepared in any restaurant. After a few more minutes of rest, I repack the dishes, refill the gas tank of the stove and stow it back inside the nesting pots. I then load it all back into my left pannier and dress for the road. I turn on the gas, start the bike and trail, somewhat reluctantly, back down the gravel and onto the pavement. In another minute I am again heading south at 70 MPH.

My little lunch break has cost me about 45 minutes, but it has more than repaid that in pleasure. And I am already looking forward to supper at the rally site. What shall I choose: soup, the rest of the dogs, stir-fry and rice? It does not matter. All that I know for sure is that I will cook it myself.

is a lot for a little flame gadget when disposable Bic lighters are only ninety nine cents. This high-quality Japanese-made tool seems worth it. It's flame is so much hotter, stronger and more precisely directed. Which is that much more useful for soldering, lighting stoves, sterilizing a cutting tool or whatever.

The beat up one shown in the photo here was bought from Aerostich in 1996, and has been carried in several different cook kits and tank bags since, used on motorcycle trips from Minnesota to Mongolia, 100,000 miles of mis-treatment, and countless refills without a single problem. It's lit camp cooking stoves and campfires hundreds of times and has perfectly shrank heat-shrink at least fifty times. After twenty years of abuse it seems like it will last forever. You get what you pay for. Again. (This one was made before the manufacturer switched to clear tanks so you cannot see how much fuel you have left. This one doesn't have it's torch-head cover or base, either.) —Mr. Subjective, May 2015

KELLY KETTLE KIT

The internal chimney design makes hot water faster. Lightweight aluminum and stainless steel, compact enough to bring along. Brings 1.2 Liters (5 cups) of water to a rolling boil within a few minutes.

Great for items like soup, boil-in-bag, or re-hydrated food, as well as boiling water for purification, making hot drinks or washing up. Includes Stainless Steel Base and 32 oz. Pot, 41 oz. Kettle, Pot Support, Grill and Gripper Handle. Fits neatly together inside a sturdy drawstring carrying bag. 12.5"×5". 2.5lbs.

COOKING WITH STICKS AND TWIGS

Nearly everywhere you'll ever camp you'll find all kinds of combustable hot-burning biomass. Sticks and twigs the size of your thumb and smaller. This stuff is way faster and easier to light and to cook with that you'd think, burns nearly smokelessly, and will reliably provide more than enough heat for all kinds of trail cookery.

But why go Neanderthal now, with all those ingenious little gas stoves available? Because A) it's less stuff to carry so you'll travel lighter, and B) it's nearly as fast to gather the fuel and then heat a liter of water as it is to do the same job with a hissing stove. And C), it's a lot cleaner than you'd think. Soot is confined within the 'chimney' of samovar-kettles so you never touch it, and flat-folding stoves come with fabric storage sleeves.

What if it's been raining all day and everything is wet? Uhh...Dead limbs still attached to trees usually remain dry enough to ignite quickly with only a little help from an accelerant like a small piece of dry paper or a few drips of gasoline, or one or two Esbit fuel tabs (#4113). After they are going the heat provided will dry wetter stuff added later. But when it's really raining super-hard find a motel and eat at a diner -- (even if you are carrying a gas stove).

About the only places you cannot quickly and easily find sticks and twigs are a few high desert locations.

—Mr. Subjective

And these luddite fire starting kits are also apparently OK to carry thru TSA checkpoints. It's no small satisfaction to know that one can always make a big fire in a few moments, regardless of where one is with one of these. ## COOKWARE METALLURGY

Aluminum? Titanium? Stainless Steel? Titanium is the lightest and most costly, but it doesn't cook best because it transfers heat unevenly. If you want to cook anything fancier than boiling water for tea or making ramen noodles, it's not ideal. Stainless Steel is the heaviest, most durable and least expensive. It works great for most kinds of cooking. Hard anodized non-stick aluminum is the best for providing the kind of even heat dispersion that helps you do a good job in a variety of cooking situations. Its non-stick surface makes it the quickest type to clean, too. Aluminum pots are lighter than stainless, heavier than titanium and slightly less durable than either. So when do we eat?

COMPARING CAMPING STOVES FOR RIDERS

Over the years I've used several different stoves. First was a Svea 123 (#4146). Used probably ten years, and still have, all ready to go, inside an old Sigg Tourister cook kit. But to prime a Svea one must pre-heat the burner by spilling a little fuel into its burner cup and lighting it. When it's just warm enough you crack open the jet for a self-sustaining (and loudish) flame.

It was replaced by a Coleman Peak 1 which was configured similarly but had a priming pump so it was easier to pressurize and light. Unfortunately, this model was discontinued a few years ago. The closest comparable stove available now is the Optimus Multi-Fuel (#4145).

For the last ten years I've been trying to like stoves with the removable tanks but can't quite get there. I've used several models and brands. They are excellent for some applications, but the extra step of connecting the tank to the burner has sometimes been a problem because I fumble and get gasoline on my hands, which is the last thing you want when you are hungry and about to be handling food.

Gas canister stoves are convenient, lightweight and clean, with replacement canisters widely available. We sell two good ones, but I still like being able to siphon fuel from my bike right into a stove when needed. A quick-disconnect to the fuel line makes refilling stoves easier. We also sell these. "There's an element to a lightweight motorcycle or scooter camping trip that is so satisfying. Like going dry fly fishing on a small remote stream, or deer hunting for a weekend in a wild place. It's the effort to use a purified, elemental logistic. It is not about living large or partying or doing more. Or eschewing technology. It's about making a plan that is focused, and then executing it as well as one can. Waking up in the middle of nowhere after sleeping on the ground is quite a feeling, isn't it? Simultaneously primal, visceral and metaphysical... Or maybe just weird. It's a lot different than a bedroom or motel room, that's for sure." —Mr. Subjective, 11/07

WHY IS GREEN NEAT?

It's better than white light, because when you turn it off there's no 'light blind' adjustment period. Also very easy to read a book by, compared to red night lighting. Another cool element is night vision goggles don't pick up green so well. So green lighting has a tactical advantage if you happen to be in a war theatre some evening. Green is also the toughest color to find in camping stores. Here it is.

AEROSTICH NAIL CLIPPERS

An uncommon European design (...actually made in Asia) allows this clipper to be folded totally flat. Admittedly, such space-saving rectilinear cleverness is no big deal in a tool this small, but you'll still enjoy the classic precision and feel of this nicer shape. Made super-sharp to accurately clip, too. The incorporated diamond-type file and cuticle tool also work better than those truck-stop cheapies. In a pinch these also double as a wire stripper or 1/8" flat tip screwdriver. Stainless steel. 2"x.5" Includes a leather storage sleeve.

DR. BRONNER'S PEPPERMINT SOAP

With a bracing, deep-cleaning peppermint aroma and a claimed variety of uses including shaving, massages, clothes cleaning, and toothbrushing, this is one versatile soapy substance that will do just about all the cleaning required when on the road. (Don't know about that toothbrushing bit though-let us know.) Also features an amazingly wordy and somewhat strange label that could double for reading material if you are trapped in your tent (or the can) during a downpour. Dr. Bronner's soap is super-mild, environmental, biodegradable, safe to use in rivers and streams, ...and leaves whatever you wash (you, your clothes, etc...) clean and fresh.

8 oz. #2062 $7.00

CAFFEINATED SOAP

We tried this stuff and felt refreshed and alert afterwards. The idea behind this soap is that the infused peppermint and caffeine absorb into your skin, leaving you zippy as a squirrel after use. The jury is out on whether the caffeine, peppermint or both do the trick, but whatever it is, it works. All natural & smells nice without the usual poisons, perfumes or chemicals. 4.5 oz. 3.75"x2.25"x0.6".

"Touring on a motorcycle and living by the way is a glorious sport. If one enjoys being out of doors, if one finds pleasure in living 'Close to Nature', if one wishes to go about in a rugged, manly way, a way that has a touch of the romantic in it, let him pack his tent aboard a motorcycle and live in the open. From the time he swings into the saddle in his own street until he returns he will find a sport that sets his blood tingling, that clears his mind and give him a prouder bearing from the knowledge of things overcome.

"He who has never rolled with a softly purring engine between his knees out into the country, stopping on the heights to drink in every detail of the scenery; he who has never slept through the cool, starry nights in the soft grass among the wild flowers has not yet tasted of a simple, wonderful joy. No man who has a motorcycle can believe himself to have exhausted the possibilities of his machine if he has not enjoyed to the fullest extent all the pleasures of touring." Theodore Werle, Camping Hints When Touring With a Motorcycle, 1915

MICROFIBER TOWEL TECH

Microfiber towels are softer, thinner and more absorbent than conventional towels. They use an ultrafine fiber that's woven like no other textile. Each square inch of a microfiber towel contains about 90,000 microfibers that are a blend of 80% polyester and 20% polyamide. These provide tremendous absorbency. Holding up to 7 times the fabric's weight in moisture...yet they dry quickly.

In addition to having a luxurious texture and fast drying ability, these towels are chemical free, lint free, non-abrasive, and hypoallergenic. Dampened with water they are great for cleaning any washable surface. They'll leave even the smoothest surfaces (eyeglasses, CDs etc...) lint and streak free. They pack in a third of the volume of normal towels, which is perfect for any trip.

AQUIS PERSONAL CAMP TOWEL

This size is perfect for all-around travel, camping and utility use. It also makes the world's finest window, windshield and bike drying towel. Nice for camp kitchen chores, too. Hand or machine wash. No bleach, no fabric softener. Dryer safe. "Adventure" weave feels like a densely woven, nubby terrycloth. 15"×29", 2.5 oz. Green.

ORTLIEB FOLDING BASIN

6:00 AM, unimproved campsite: heat water on camp stove and fill basin, mixing with unheated water to ideal temperature. Wash face and body in warm water. Towel off and say: "AAAHHH!" Tough and versatile, the uses for this item are legion: doing dishes, washing clothes, picking berries, bathing sore feet. Made of the same material as Ortlieb dry bags and saddlebags, this basin folds up small. 11"×11"×5.5". 10 L.

POCKET SOAP

An ingenious hygienic solution for travelers. Pocket Soap consists of fifty paper thin, single serving sheets of pure dry soap. Just add water and the leaves dissolve completely for use as body wash, shampoo, or for dish and clothes washing. Use one or two, and the rest stay dry, so there's no need to contend with the soapy mess of traditional bars of soap. Comes efficiently stored in a plastic case that's about the same size as those mini hotel bars of soap. Ideal for travel, but will come in handy on week-end excursions so leave one in your tank bag. Fragrance-free. 1.75"×2.75"×.75", .5 oz.

BEESTING AMPULES

Bee, wasp and hornet impacts and stings are an unwelcome but inevitable part of long distance riding. After doing an emergency jacket and helmet shedding road-side dance (live-chicken-on-a-hot-skillet), apply one of these disposable swabs. They contain enough Benzocaine to immediately relieve the searing pain so you can ride onward enjoying the rest of the day.

Five Swabs (.5cc each) #2092 $6.00

HEADNETS

After swarms of mosquitoes & flying pests play an irritating little game of chicken with you, THEN they bite you! Keep the little devils off your face, neck, and head instead of running around willy-nilly and swatting at the air like a crazy person. Or smearing yourself with smelly, greasy concoctions of poisons. All nets fit easily over a hat—even wide brimmed ones (hats shown are not included).

BLACK FLY

Does not have a spring ring or no-see-um mesh, but features a cinch cord at the bottom and folds up & fits into an accompanying bag about half the size of your hand.

#4061 $12.00

MOSQUITO

An effective but less expensive version that does not have no-see-um mesh, but features an elastic band at the bottom to help gather the net close to your collar.

HORSE FLY

A foldable spring-ring keeps the no-see-um mesh off your face, not to mention the nasty little critters and whatnots further away from your skin. A hidden pocket within the headnet wraps it all together in a neat, snapped bundle so there's no extra storage bag to lose. There's also a draw cord at the bottom to seal the net close to your shirt.

INFLATABLE SNAKE

Ostensibly designed to keep dung-producing birds off the docks where yachtsmen park their fancy boats, but we were intrigued by the potential for tent/sleeping bag mayhem involving reptile-averse members of the riding fraternity. Liven up that rally campsite and maybe get yourself punched. Great fun. Measures an alarming 6' long.
